Dear Hiring Manager,

I believe that that web development for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints would be a fantastic opportunity. The Church is an organization that I would love to work for; being apart of such an institution would allow me to help bolster its operations and help many around the globe. Furthermore, web development is one way that I can give back for all that the Church has done for me. Having grown up in the Church, it has supported me in many ways. I would love to give back in a work capacity while learning more about web development!

This is a field in which I already have some extensive knowledge in; I have spent my college career studying how to create high level information systems that include front end web development and back end database systems. One fun example is a website that I made for class last semester that I deployed on a web server. You can visit this website as the following URL: <https://travellife1-10.herokuapp.com/>. While simple, it demonstrates the basic skills necessary for web development.

I know that I will be a great addition to the web development team. Not only do I have the technical skills, but I also have the interpersonal skills that will allow me to meld into a team and increase its productivity.

Thank you for your time,

T. True Fullmer
